Architect Named For Park Project

3 STORY BUILDING MAY BE PLACED ON CITY PARK SITE

Summer & Spaulding Engaged To Prepare Plans for Big Improvement

Detailed plans and specifications for the construction of the various recreational facilities at the new municipal park will be prepared by Sumner & Spaulding, Beverly Hills architects, as the result of action taken by the city officials this week.

Scheduled to be included as part of the park improvement is the proposed $56,000 community recreational building, formerly planned on the site of the American Legion club house.

If plans materialize this three-story structure will be advantageously placed on the municipal park site east of the hospital.

It will be up to the architects to arrange the various features on the site as well as making detailed plans for the plunge, recreational building, kitchen, ball diamond, tennis and handball courts.

Arrangements were made at a special meeting of the city council Tuesday night to engage the architects with orders for them to prepare the plans immediately.

Richard G. Manley, city service manager, said today that as soon as the architects have tentative plans, preliminary work can be started. Placing of the community recreational building on the park will add another popular feature to the improvement. While the Legion has not definitely gone on record approving the change, Commander Clair E. Kirk said that a committee was working with city officials to that end.

Originally the Legion post had offered to give its present building and site to the city for location of the recreational building. In return for this property the post was to have exclusive use of the third floor of the proposed building for its meetings and headquarters.

WPA has allotted $62,000 to the city for development of the park and $56,000 for construction of the recreational building, making a total of $118,000. The city is obligated to pay a few more thousand as its part of the project as well as providing the site.

Organists' Guild To Meet in Mennonite Church for Recital

As a part of the regular meeting of the American Guild of Organists, Southern California chapter, the members will gather for dinner at 6 o'clock Monday evening in the dining room of the Upland Mennonite church, and later will hear an organ recital by Prof. Joseph W. Clokey of Pomona college.

A splendid organ was installed in the Mennonite church last fall, the instrument being designed by Professor Clokey and installed under his direction.

The Guild meeting is being held at the chrurch to afford an opportunity for the members to inspect the organ.

The recital will be open to the public and all who desire to enjoy the music will be cordially welcomed, the program to begin at 8 o'clock.

SPEAKERS DEFEND, ATTACK TOWNSEND PLAN AT CHAFFEY

Senator Arbuckle and Dr. Duncan Present Views On Proposal

WIDE INTEREST SHOWN

Transactions Tax Subject of Much Discussion in Forum Address

Describing the Townsend plan as a movement of the people to take back the government into their own hands in order to preserve individualism and business, Frank A. Arbuckle, former state senator, and who presided at the recent national Townsend club convention, discussed the proposal last night in one of a series of lectures being sponsored at Chaffey.

He was the principal speaker but Dr. Kenneth Duncan, Pomona college professor, delivered a critical analysis of the plan so that the large audience was given both sides of the widely publicized proposal.

"Will Townsend Change Conditions for the Better?" was Senator Arbuckle's topic and in a masterful presentation he described the plan as big enough to bring recovery, reconstruction, rehabilitation and redistribution.

It must be a recovery program, he said, because of the misery abroad and the failure so far to make a recovery; it must reconstruct the problem of taxation by means of the transactions tax; it must restore security in the home, to age, to youth, and to the job, and it must redistribute wealth.

Senator Arbuckle discussed in detail the philosophy of the transactions tax and the way in which it would be possible to raise the required amount for the pensions by means of it and the other proposed taxes. He indicated that as a profit tax each person would bear his share of the tax burden.

Dr. Duncan, replying as chairman of the forum, presented is analysis of the Townsend plan from an economic point of view. He stated that everyone was interested in old age pensions, but he felt that more study and analysis of the situation was needed before there could be a solution of the problem.

Dr. Duncan showed by analysis that, in his opinion, the transactions tax would not do what its proponents expect; that it would raise prices, burden the wage earner and consumer, and penalize the unfortunate who had to spend most of his earnings for a living. It would be impossible, he said, to raise enough from the tax to produce the necessary amount for the plan as considered at present.

That the use of the pension in its proposed form would create a new privileged class, was the statement of the forum leader. Forty per cent of the national income would be given to seven per cent of the population, with 60 per cent left for the remaining 93 per cent, he declared. There is no way in which it may be expected the pension would increase national income or give greater justice by putting an income 10 times that of the others in the hands of a group, he contended.

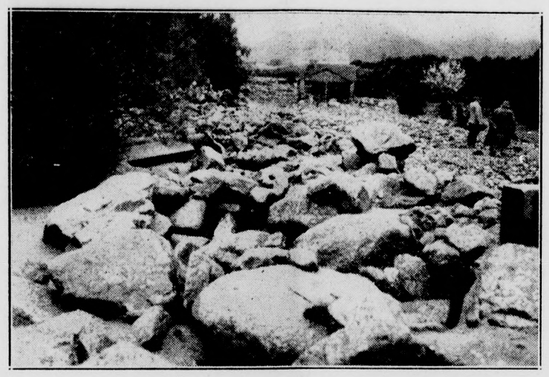

The keen interest of the audience on both sides of the question was revealed when the large number of questions was received from the floor. These were answered by Senator Arbuckle and Dr. Duncan as they came within the field of their special interests. The questions included definitions of economic terms, problems of administration of the Townsend plan, and questions about its application, especially the results of the transactions tax.

EIGHT HOUSES AND TWO GROVES HARD STRUCK BY FLOOD

Other Property in Heights Damaged as Many Flee From Residences

At least eight houses were more or less damaged, several very severely, and at least two citrus groves were badly washed by the flood waters that have rushed through San Antonio Heights and south of Twenty-fourth street this week.

Here is a brief summary about the people affected by the flood and the damages to their property:

Mr. and Mrs. George Goforth, second house west of Heights store—a carpet of mud and rocks six inches deep in entire house, with tables, chairs and other furniture in the rooms giving mute evidence of a hasty exit. The family obtained a house in Upland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dickens, southwest corner Euclid avenue and Twenty-fourth street—house surrounded with bank of mud a foot or more deep and interior of house badly soaked with mud. The family is residing with her mother, Mrs. George Crill in Upland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Countryman, on north side of West Twenty-fourth street, near Euclid—two feet of debris at rear door, interior of house not damaged, barn and poultry buildings badly damaged. Many inches of mud and big boulders cover entire property.

W. A. Sprague, just east of Countryman's—a huge pile of dirt washed against back door, barn partly caved in and truck nearly hub deep in debris. Big boulders all over place.

J. O. Hitt, east of Sprague's—house undamaged, carefully landscaped lot damaged as big rocks and mud left everywhere.

Ray R. Sherwood citrus grove, West Twenty-fourth, and O. K. Granger grove, Euclid avenue south of Dickens', very badly gutted with deep channels and some

Just a hint of the extensive damage suffered in San Antonio Heights may be obtained in these two pictures taken from Twenty-fifth street, where Frankish canyon emptied its flood waters. In the top picture the cameraman was looking north and caught O. H. Turner, one of those whose property was heavily damaged, explaining to a friend what it was like before the flood. Rock and debris are nearly 10 feet deep, two chicken houses and a garage formerly being where the big boulders are now. In the lower picture are the remains of a tree toppled over by the wall of flood water, a broken water pipe and plenty of rock that formerly was far up the hillside. The lower scene was taken looking south from Twenty-fifth street.

FIVE INCHES OF RAIN IS RECORDED

Storm Since Monday Night Brings Season Total To 9.88 Inches

Of much benefit to all citrus growers, except a few in the San Antonio Heights region, rain of this week produced 5.03 inches of water. This total includes the showers and heavy downpours that have occurred intermittently since late Monday night.

Heavy rainfall occurred Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. One report in San Antonio Heights was to the effect that one inch of rain fell in 45 minutes. Throughout Monday and Tuesday nights rainfall was quite steady with heavy showers coming occasionally. The storm was general throughout the district with Etiwanda getting nearly six inches.

Ontario's rainfall was not quite as heavy as the storm here but the business district there was badly flooded due to the heavy flow down Euclid avenue.

CITRUS EXPORTS SEEN AS BIG AID

Santa Fe Official Points Out To Lions That Foreign Business Helps

"You wouldn't be able to drive your car if it were not for imports to this country and think of what would happen to your prices if four million more boxes of citrus were dumped on the eastern markets," asserted Fred W. Beeman foreign freight agent for the Santa Fe Railway Co., at the meeting of the Upland Lions club in the Red Hill Country club house yesterday noon.

His address emphasized the importance of exports and imports to this country. He stressed the point that imports bring to this country such necessities as rubber, silk and other products enabling maintenance of factories giving employment to thousands of Americans.

Citrus exports last year totaled four million boxes and Mr. Beeman pointed out that if it had not been for the foreign markets this fruit would either have further reduced the prices in the American markets or would have been dumped in the washes.

It is Mr. Beeman's business to supervise the shipments from the Los Angeles port. He is in a position to see the effect of governmental policy on foreign trade. He commended the administration for the recent reciprocal trade agreements but scored the nation's leaders for the drop in recent years of the big decline in exports. Southern California income from foreign markets is $100,000,000 a year less now than the peak year, he said.

California citrus is meeting stronger competition in the world markets—from South Africa and Brazil, where California-made machinery and methods are in use, the official said.

Sent every day from the Los Angeles port are $1000 worth of old newspapers and $6000 worth of scrap iron.

Japan buys annually $50,000,000 more from the United States than that nation sells here, he said, to dispute the general belief that Japan is flooding this country with products.

L. A. Fox, local Santa Fe agent, was program chairman, with Clyde DuVall, president, in charge.

Japan will never go to war with the United States, in the opinion of Mr. Beeman. "This country is the best silk customer in the world and America has the buying power to bring economic suicide to Japan," he said.

Fifth Grade Essays

Fifth grade students wrote about Lincoln prior to his 21st birthday anniversary. Following are the three winning fifth grade essays:

By Flora Masuda

Abraham was born Feb. 12, 1809, in Kentucky. The Lincoln family lived in Kentucky until Abraham was seven years old. Then they crossed the Ohio river to Indiana. They built a 14 foot square house, with one side left open, and here they built the fire. The house had a ground floor. Abraham's father, Thomas Lincoln, made some three-legged stools and a table, and a few other things. In the loft of the cabin Abraham made his bed of leaves. He got up

Sixth Grade Essays

Sixth grade students wrote about Lincoln after he reached 21 years of age. The essays follow:

By Phyllis Goodban

Abraham Lincoln, after moving to Illinois, helped his father clear a farm, giving himself the nickname "rail splitter," which in later life helped him as a candidate for public office. In 1831 Abe took a load of cargo to New Orleans for a man named Offutt, who owned a grocery store. In New Orleans Lincoln was looking about the city when he saw that Negro people, parents and little children, old men and women, were being sold as slaves. Lincoln did not believe in it and could not look at it. Lincoln

Flood Leaves Huge Loss To Homes on S. A. Heights

Near Victim of Flood Tells of Narrow Escape In Wild River

Caught in a wall of flood water just like a gigantic wave on a beach, battered against boulders and carried by the terrific force of water for more than a third of a mile, Edgar R. Young is alive today to recount one of the most horrifying incidents in the disastrous San Antonio Heights flood.

His eyes blackened and badly scratched, his forehead and nose raw with cuts and rock-jabs, his hands swollen from bruises and cuts and his entire body "just like that," Mr. Young is recuperating at the Home Inn, upper Euclid avenue, after miraculously escaping from the flood waters late on Tuesday afternoon.

He was busy in the wash near the Joe Arnold property, just south of Twenty-fifth street. He was seeking to keep the boulders from piling up so that the flood water would not be clogged. Suddenly a near cloud-burst flooded the sides of Frankish canyon and the stream of flood water was turned into a mad river. Mr. Young ran to escape but a wall of water estimated by some as 10 feet high caught him. Turned head over heels, banged against rushing boulders, Mr. Young was almost drowned. At Twenty-fourth street, where the flood channel widened, he was able to gain his feet. Two unidentified men heroically rescued him.

Mr. Young has resided in the Heights area about eight years. His home is on the west branch of Upper Euclid avenue, just east of the Home Inn. A 19-year-old son from Indianapolis recently arrived to make his home with him.

"Was your head out of water during that time?" he was asked as he painfully recuperated in a private room at the Inn.

"I guess it was part of the time," he replied. "I swallowed so much water and sand and so much sand got into my eyes."

Mr. Young didn't know just what he did to escape being drowned.

"I just fought the water and rocks," he continued. "I tried to get out but there was such a rush and the channel was so deep. By and by the water spread out and I was barely able to stand up."

O. M. Carter Moving To Blythe Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Carter and family are today preparing to move to Blythe where they have leased a farm and Mr. Carter will join his brother-in-law, B. A. Evans, in the operation of the property. Mr. Carter's resignation from the Upland fire department is effective tomorrow. The house they purchased in recent months at 711 Washington boulevard, will be occupied by E. E. Carter, his brother.

De Von Francisco has been engaged by the city to succeed Mr. Carter in serving at the fire hall.

MONA BOYD WINS ORATORICAL EVENT

20-30 Club Presents Prizes to Three in Lincoln Contest

Mona Boyd won first place in the first annual 20-30 club Abraham Lincoln oratorical contest at the Upland junior high school Wednesday. She was awarded $5 in cash and her name will be engraved on a placque to be permanently placed in the school trophy case. Ernest Farmer was second and he was given a $3 prize and Kiyonaga Okamoto was third with his prize being $2. Other contestants were Leslie Warner and Dorothy Jean Neilson.

The five contestants were selected from a group of 14 who participated in an elimination contest.

The orations were original and dealt with various phases of the life of the man whose birthday anniversary was observed Feb. 12. Three members of the 20-30 club were judges: Vernon Shiftlett, Raymond Hobbs and Howard Fay. Rollin Lemon, president of the club, made the presentations.

Miss Boyd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Boyd of San Antonio Heights. She delivered the oration at the meeting of the Upland Lions club in the Red Hill Country club yesterday noon.

DEEP CHANNEL IS CUT THROUGH AREA BY STORM WATERS

Houses Flooded, Groves, Yards Gutted as Flow Tears Down From Hills

From 10 to 25 feet wide and from four to eight feet deep is a channel dissecting San Antonio Heights from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-fourth streets; many houses have carpets of mud and the landscape and general contour of the land is drastically changed—all of this due to the flood waters that rushed down the mountain side and converged in one major stream through the Heights.

Loss to Heights residents is in damage to houses and to the placing of rock and debris many feet deep over small groves, lawns and gardens and in the digging of the deep channel. The channel leads from Frankish canyon at Twenty-fifth street on south inclining eastward, just missing the R. E. Van Ness home, and a score feet west of the Bethany Union church.

In case of heavy rains in the immediate future it is likely the flood water will follow the channel and will not threaten any more houses than have already been flooded. Since the beginning of the current storm Tuesday water has been rushing down the channel, digging it deeper. In the downpour of late Tuesday afternoon and late Wednesday afternoon the water flooded a half dozen houses and forced six other families to flee for safety.

No attempt has been made to estimate the total loss. Individual residents and grove owners suffered the damage. Individuals, the county and the city of Upland will be placed to a considerable expense in clearing up the debris.

O. H. Turner formerly maintained two chicken houses and a barn where there is now about 10 feet of rock, boulders and silt His buildings were wrecked. His property is on the north side of Twenty-fifth street. Just south of his property is Joe Arnold's property and G. K. Davis nursery. stock Many of the citrus trees were uprooted and the soil deeply gutted. From this point south to Twenty-fourth street, the channel takes on deep proportions. On West Crescent drive—the artery passing near the Heights store and church—huge boulders were dumped over a wide area. Pavement on this artery meant nothing to the flood waters and the channel was dug deep across it and on down south to Twenty-fourth street. In approaching Twenty-fourth the waters dumped more rock and debris on the properties of J. I. Countryman, W. A. Sprague and J. O. Hitt.

South of Twenty-fourth street the flood tore many deep gullies in the Ray Sherwood grove, damaging some trees. Similar damage was also done to the O. K. Granger grove some distance south of Twenty-fourth just west of a Euclid avenue.

Elsewhere on this page is given a detailed account of persons who suffered loss.

Galleon of Dreams Will Be Published Soon in Book Form

Abraham Lincoln

Anyone who understands the greatness of Lincoln understands also how one must feel who attempts to praise him—how like a pigmy reverently delivering a eulogy to the boot-tops of a colossus whose head is above the clouds.

Lincoln himself at Gettysburg knew the feeling, perhaps because he never forgot through all his great accomplishments that he was "of the people." There he said:

"But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract."

The verdict of history has consecrated the memory of Lincoln far above the poor power of anyone now to add or detract. Humility was his, and humanness, and a rugged, earthy quality. These more than anything else have made him a symbol of the soul of America. These are the things about him which America is remembering now, on the 127th anniversary of his birth.

More than columns of rhetoric, the majestic words of Lincoln's second inaugural address breathe the spirit of his greatness. They were delivered at a time when bitter criticism and villification were being heaped upon him, and the Nation was bleeding from the wounds of civil war.

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

And yet in these days—in spite of the greatness of Lincoln, and also of Washington—there are those who take every opportunity available to besmirch their character. But they make very little impression upon the people—except to create indignation against those who criticise. Edgar Lee Masters and Rupert Hughes are men in that class. The Reseda News comments as follows on Masters' contribution in a current magazine:

"He goes further in belittling his subject than Rupert Hughes went with Washington, or Woodward with General Grant. In debunking Lincoln he refers to him as a shifty politician, a faithless lover and tricky lawyer. He charges him with bringing on the Civil war. He asserts that the war would not have occurred had Lincoln subordinated the preservation of the union to his ambition to be president. History of that era cannot be perverted because its events are too near the present generation for pettifoggers like Masters to pervert its teachings."

You Must Register in Order to Vote

There still seems to be considerable confusion about the advisability and necessity of registering in California at this time in order to be eligible to vote. The state registrar states that numerous persons think all the shouting about having to sign up is all wrong—and that the whole thing is a mistake.

It is quite easy to understand this misapprehension—and perhaps unjust to blame them—as they were told when they registered before that it was final and they would never have to register again unless they went out of the state. However, the last state legislature nullified the permanent registration law and called for this new registration.

Some say that it is nothing more than a test of party strength—while others believe it is necessary in order to eliminate names on the rolls which are not correct. Be that as it may—or whatever opinion one may have—everyone must register again this year in order to vote. There is no mistake about that—and the time is getting short. In registering, a voter does not have to state his party preference—he can "decline to state" if he so desires. However, such a registration does not entitle one to vote in the primaries—only in the regular elections.

It should be borne in mind this is presidential year—a year when all will want to express their choice in the national elections as well as in city, district and state. There should be the largest vote in the history of the nation—but such will not be the case unless people see to their registration. And—register as soon as possible, before it is too late.

What would our forefathers say about us if they were here—and what will our children say after us? To a very large extent the money of the former was used to get us into the depression—and our children will have to spend their money to get the country out of it.

It is unreasonable for the administration to expect that industry can use the same dollar to pay taxes and wages. If the government continues to demand taxes in order to provide relief funds, industry has just that much less with which to pay wages.

—o—

According to the wiseacres of the olden days, just two things were certain—death and taxes. In these modern days it has been amended to read: Death and higher taxes.

—o—

According to General Johnson, "relief is back in politics." A vast majority of the people aren't aware that it ever got out.

Immorteile

Grandmother's chair sways to and fro,
Over the creaking board in the floor.
And her needles gleam in the mellow light,
As she croons a melody o'er and o'er.

Where has grandmother gone tonight?
She isn't here, it is very plain;
For she did not know when I lowered the shade,
And told her it looked like a long slow rain.

She's back in an old fashioned garden now,
With its gay red roses and hollyhocks,
And she's smiling up at her lover tall,
As they loiter along its narrow walks.

And now she is sitting before the fire,
And here by her side is a baby's bed,
And she kisses each little soft pink toe,
And cuddles the round little downy head.

And now she is hearing the roll of drums,
And the tramping of soldier's feet afar,
And the heart in her beats a glad refrain,
For her oldest boy has come home from war.

As she rocks and knits, the family say,
"She is very old, almost eighty-three."
But they do not know that grandmother is
Any age that she wants to be.

Triumphant

O blest the day
When I can say
"I fear no ill!"

Then heavenly joy
Without alloy
My soul shall fill.

And I shall stand
In full command
Of all I meet.

Tho heart be torn
By hate or scorn,
I'll still keep sweet.

Then I can smile—
But without guile—
At every sneer.

And see, aglow,
A bright rainbow
In every tear.

Then shall I sense
The recompense
Of life's long fight.

And know, tho pain
Seemed all in vain,
God's way was right.

So with a song
I'll carry on
From day to day.

Doing God's will,
Fearing no ill,
Let come what may.

Vagabond Feet

The sky is a deep dark blue today
And the wind blows soft from the west.
The desert stretches lie far, far away
And the wild, wild calls in my breast.

Like a bird on the wing, I long to be free—
The desert and mountains to greet,
The white drifting sands, tracked by Arab bands,
I'm a Nomad with vagabond feet.

I have houses and land, and dear homing ties,
And all that makes life worth while.
But there's a call in my breast when the west wind sighs,
There's a beckoning road mile on mile.

The tang of the sea, the boom of the surf,
A beach where treacherous waves beat—
And the lure of the plain, and it's caught me again,
I'm a nomad with vagabond feet.

—Annie L. Towler

Vision

Let us not when mortal man,
Goes beyond this earthly span,
Sob and weep in weary woe,
For Heaven's not our earthly foe.
Let us see the promise there,
For its here and everywhere,
Of a change that's better still,
We can see it if we will.
Let us go and greet the tide,
And meet it with courageous stride,
It will take us on a wave,
Far beyond the earthly grave.

Over the soldiers' grassy beds,
Over the sleeping lads who lie
So still that neither you nor I
Would guess they had a resting place

Items Taken From The News Files of 14 Years Ago, 1921

L. N. Kirk has received a telegram from Senator Samuel Shortridge telling of the senate confirmation of his appointment as postmaster for Upland. Mr. Kirk at one time was a member of the E. A. Bowen dry goods company, retaining his interest when the business was sold by Mr. Bowen to the J. J. Atwood Co. For five years Mr. Kirk has been conducting a poultry ranch on Twenty-fourth street.

Stockholders of the San Antonio Water Co., in annual session yesterday, authorized the sale of 4,400 acres of mountain land, that is of no further value to the company. This will make it possible for summer vacationists to own their cabin sites in place of leasing them as in the past.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Clair E. Kirk, son of Loring N. Kirk of San Antonio Heights, and Miss Thelma Fischer of Long Beach. Mr. Kirk is a graduate of Chaffey and during the World war he was in active service with the navy. He is now employed by the Standard Oil Co.

The Road to Security

Covina Argus: When, in 1917, this country was confronted by the imperative necessity of winning a war, it called upon production to win it, says Henry Ford in an interview in the Saturday Evening Post of February first, an article that every citizen, especially politicians, should read.

Food will win the war, our leaders said; manufacturers were mandated to triple and quadruple production. The cry was to produce and produce—that production would win the war—and it proved to be true.

What a pity, Mr. Ford says, that we have not met the great human needs of this depression with the same weapons! He scores government and finance as twin partners in preventing adequate distribution of usable commodities.

In this Ford interview there is sufficient material for the most compelling platform that any political party could adopt, but it will not be adopted by any party of strength, because we have allowed money to itself become a commodity, and as a commodity it is blocking the adequate distribution of other real and usable commodities. There are none so blind as those who won't see.

Mouse Traps

Sanger Herald: "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Emerson may have been preaching good business gospel when he spoke that classic, but for these more competitive times it is the bunk.

Such a man today would preach to himself, mice would build nests with his book and the path to his doorway would grow rank with weeds.

A man today with a better book, sermon or mouse trap either advertises the fact by beating a path to his neighbor's door or he lives alone and dies forgotten in the wilderness.

Brain Trusters Will Explain

Reseda News: In future histories will appear accounts of the government ploying under corn, cotton and other growing crops for the purpose of creating plenty, with the object of feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Then it will be told how pigs and other meat-producing animals were killed off by the hundred-thousands that the hungry might be fed. How posterity will reach for the answer. How did sane men expect to feed the mouths and cover the backs by destroying what was needed to provide for their wants? And there will be no brain trusters to explain the anomaly.

CUCAMONGA COURT COLLECTS MOST FINES IN COUNTY

Judge Sharp Administers Penalties Totaling $2997 During Year

More fines were collected from traffic violators in the Cucamonga justice court than any other court in the county, it was revealed today in a report of a county-wide survey.

The court handled by Judge James Sharp covers a large area, including a long strip of Foothill boulevard, one of the most popular thoroughfares in the southland and known to be preferred by speeders. In an effort to discourage speeding and to cooperate with police officers, Judge Sharp levied heavy fines on the speed demons. Total fines for last year were $2,997.50. San Bernardino justice court collected $2,293.

In the Upland justice court $327 in fines were collected last year. Ontario justice court collections totaled $1,362.50.

Gas Automatic Water Heaters Are Offered On Attractive Terms

An opportunity for people in the Upland district to take advantage of a gas automatic water heater campaign is being given by the Mehl Hardware Co. During the campaign water heaters may be purchased with no down payment and on a small monthly payment plan.

Advantages of an automatic heater over the old type are emphasized.

"We have an unusually efficient water heater, embodying many new scientific construction principles," J. W. Mehl, manager of the company, said today. "It has been a boon to housewives everywhere."

One feature of the Day & Night water heater, handled by the local concern, is a clean out opening. This improvement permits cleaning lime from the heater without disturbing water or gas connections. The heater has a safety pilot control which operates automatically to shut off the gas when the pilot light is not burning.

History California Counties Related

Humboldt county is described in this installment of the series on California counties. The installment follows:

Created May 12, 1853. This county derived its name from Humboldt Bay which was named for Baron Alexander von Humboldt, the eminent scientist, by Captain Ottinger of the ship Laura Virginia.

Known as the "Redwood Wonderland," Humboldt combines every known economic attraction with the advantages of mountain, forest and coast scenery, a world port and a famous highway. Industries range from the growing of flowers to the shipping of lumber and live stock, with butterfat, lumber, wool, beef, fruits and berries as the principal products. For 108 miles this county stretches along the scenic coast of Northern California, separated from Oregon by Del Norte county and with an average width of 35 miles between the Pacific Coast and Trinity. Rhode Island and Delaware could be placed within its boundaries and there would be 543 square miles to spare.

Motorists entering from the south over the famous Redwood highway gradually enter Humboldt's primeval forest of giant redwoods stretching for 75 miles. There are 400,000 acres of redwood timberland. The cutting of timber and its manufacture into lumber give employment to 7,000 men whose annual pay roll check exceeds $10,000,000. Some of the largest lumber mills in the world are located in Humboldt. Stock raising is an important industry. A recent United States farm census gives the county 100,000 head of sheep and 80,117 head of cattle. Humboldt is famed as a dairying district. The county is proud of its port at Eureka which during the past several years has handled $25,000,000 worth of water-borne commerce annually. Population: 43,233. Area: 3575 square miles.

Church Must Develop Leadership, Speaker In Series Declares

Dr. Henry Kendall Booth, pastor of the First Congregational church of Long Beach, summed up the statements and opinions made by the six outstanding religious leaders in the religious education series, "The Church Speaks," when he said: "The churches must become interested in social and economic problems, and we must look to them to bring us out of the serious situation in which we find curselves today." The topic, "Why Are So Many Hungry in the Midst of Plenty?" was the last discussion on the series, sponsored at Chaffey junior college. Dr. Booth spoke Tuesday night.

The Reverend Charles L. Knight, pastor of the Congregational church of Ontario, acted as chairman, and the forum leader was Rev. Stricker of Pomona.

"Unemployment," Dr. Booth stated, "cannot be solved by any one party in power because it is the result of technological over production." The speaker indicated that the nation must look for leadership in the church. He credited John D. Rockefeller, Jr. with the remark that in attendance at various meetings of industry, he had not heard one constructive suggestion for a remedy.

did not know that in later years he would free the slaves.

When Abe returned to Illinois Mr. Offutt thought that Abe had done his work well and gave him a job as clerk in his grocery store. He was so honest in this work that he earned the name "Honest Abe." Abe was very much interested in studying and learning. Abe wanted to do something more than clerk in a store so he enlisted in the Black Hawk war and then he was promoted to captain and served for three months. After he returned, he married Mary Todd in 1842.

In 1846 Lincoln was elected to the House of Representatives, and he served but one term. He was elected president on March 4, 1860. He was the 16th president of the United States.

In the year 1865, Lincoln was shot at Ford's theatre by an actor named Booth. Lincoln died the next morning. The north and south both mourned over his death.

By Georgia Sleuman

Lincoln was, perhaps, the most kindhearted, unselfish and merciful President the world has ever known. His wisdom took him from the place of a poor country boy to that of world's greatest man.

In 1830 the Lincoln family moved to Macon county, Ill. "Abe," an awkward, tall, skinny, rough-looking boy of 21, stayed home long enough to help his father build the family a comfortable home of logs. He also cultivated 15 acres of land and split rails to fence it. Then he started out for himself.

Early in life Lincoln became interested in politics. As a boy he studied a law book which a neighbor loaned him.

He was nominated for the state legislature in 1832. He failed but was elected two years later and served for eight years. After he had finished his term in the legislature he was admitted to the bar, and he went into law partnership.

Lincoln was married shortly after entering the bar, to Miss Mary Todd. He met her while she was visiting friends in Springfield.

Many years later when the Republican national convention met in Chicago, in 1860, Lincoln was the most promising candidate for president. He was victorious in the fall elections. As a boy of about 18 Lincoln had seen a slave market. He did not think that white men had any right to sell negroes. He said that he would like to do away with slavery if he could. Now he had a chance.

Although he had said he did not intend to interfere with slavery where it already existed, excitement in the south rose to fever heat at his election. The peaceful attitude of the new president could not stop the bitter feeling between the north and south, so war was declared by an attack on Fort Sumpter on April 13, 1861.

All during the war Lincoln was merciful to many soldiers who would have been shot for not obeying or for other things. At last the war was over and the slaves were freed. Still many southerners did not like Lincoln. One night at the Ford theatre Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth, a southern actor, who considered Lincoln a tyrant.

By Billy Scott

Abraham Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809. When he was but a young man he told his mother that he was going out to make his own living. One day Abe was asked to take a load of stock to New Orleans. He didn't have a boat so he and his stepbrothers built one. The trip was so successful that the man offered him a job in his store. Abe gladly accepted the job. One day a lady bought some groceries. By accident Abe overcharged her six cents. Abe walked three miles in the rain to pay back the six cents. Later Abe won the name of "Honest Abe."

In later years Abe studied law. He went into partnership with John T. Stuart and later with Stephen T. Logan. In 1843 he married Mary Todd. Lincoln had three sons. In 1860 Lincoln became President of the United States.

Lincoln's one ambition was to free the slaves. The south fired the first shot that started the war between the north and south. So many northern soldiers were killed that Pennsylvania gave some land on which to bury the soldiers. The north finally defeated the south and the war was over and the slaves were free. Most of the south hated Lincoln more so now than ever. After his four years were over, he was reelected. He ruled the people just as he had before. One night Lincoln and his wife went to the Ford theatre. Between the first and second scene a southern actor got into Lincoln's box and shot him. He jumped from the box to the stage and as he jumped he caught his foot in the flag, but he escaped. The next day Lincoln died. The people then realized what a great man Lincoln was and how much they loved him. The people of today still love and respect Abraham Lincoln and always will.

Entertainers Present Program for Club Dinner Meeting

More than 70 members and guests of the Upland Woman's club gathered in the club house Tuesday evening to enjoy a most delightful program, arranged as a sepcial observance of annual men's night, and in all its features the meeting was an outstanding success.

The opening event of the evening was the 6:30 dinner and an excellent menu was served by Mrs. Walter W. Horak and her committee.

Sprays of flowering peach blossoms were used in the attractive table decorations, these being supplemented on the president's table with lighted candelabra surrounded with bowls of colorful pansies. Mrs. R. C. Norton and Miss Elizabeth Harris arranged the decorations.

Mrs. Clyde Whiteley, president of the club, presided during the evening, and following the flag salute, and the reading of the club collect by Mrs. Ella Westland Beaubier of Alberta, Canada, first president of the club, Mrs. Whiteley extended a cordial welcome to the guests and announced she would dispense with the business meeting. She then presented the entertainers for the evening and a diversified but well assembled program was given, featuring Miss Leonore Tuttle of Glendale, concert dance artist.

Miss Tuttle, a former resident of Ontario, is widely known throughout the Southland as a dancer of exceptional talent and she ably sustained that reputation when she appeared in a group of interpretative dances. Her program included five numbers, "The Love Waltz" (Schulte), "Little Boy's Bad Dream" (Gershwin), "Mallorca" (Albeniz), "The Dutch Doll" (Pijper), and "To a Water-lily" (McDowell).

Miss Tuttle, possessing unusual beauty and personal charm, accentuated by her various colorful costumes, made a pleasing appearance and her grace and perfect technique delighted her audience.

Miss Tuttle's accompanist, Mrs. Alice Babcock Ripley, not only provided a sympathetic musical background for the dancer, but she also contributed to the program by playing a number of beautiful piano selections.

Other popular numbers on the program were provided by the versatile musical trio, Nip and Tuck and Verna Huston of San Bernardino, clever young performers on the accordion and string instruments, and a group of talented singers from Chaffey junior college men's glee club, directed by S. Earle Blakeslee. In the group were Hershell Whitmer, Bob Snider, Orval Brunk, Harry Handley, Tom McNamee, John Huddleston and Olaf Vaniman, who sang "The Marine's Hymn," "The Northland," "Sunrise and You," and "The Sword of Ferrara."

Miss Olson Reveals Her Engagement to Harland Horak

The home of Mrs. C. Ernest Olson, 280 Eighth avenue, was the scene of an interesting event last evening when Mrs. Olson and her sister-in-law, Miss Ethel Olson, entertained with an announcement party, the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Olson and Harland Horak being revealed.

The valentine motif, very appropriate for the happy occasion, was used in the menu and favors for the refreshments served late in the evening, and sweet peas and other spring blossoms were employed in the decorations.

Bridge provided entertainment for the guests and it was at the beginning of the tourney that the important news was made known, when in one of the bridge tallies were found concealed pictures of Miss Olson and Mr. Horak with the inscription, "Ethel and Harland—Summer of 1936."

Although the romance has been no secret among the large circle of friends, yet the announcement of the nuptial plans was an event of much interest and the friends present to hear the news showered the prospective bride with happy felicitations.

At the conclusion of the bridge playing, score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Walter W. Horak, Miss Esther Anderson, Miss Margaret Brest and Mrs. Vernon V. Paine.

Miss Olson is the daughter of Mrs. Alma S. Olson, now of Salem, S. D., but for many years a resident of Upland. She attended both Chaffey high school and junior college and later graduated from the Santa Barbara State Teachers college. For the past several years she has been teaching in the Ontario schools.

Mr. Horak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Horak, 181 West Arrow highway, also attended Chaffey high school and junior college and he now is employed at the Upland branch, Bank of America.

A second announcement was made early this morning at the Euclid school in Ontario, where Miss Olson teaches, when a little girl delivered to each of Miss Olson's associates a corsage to which was attached a scroll telling of the engagement.

Guests invited to the party last evening were Mrs. Victor Bean of Inglewood, Mrs. Noah Chormicle of Hemet, Mrs. Ted Reeder of Pomona, Mrs. Lawrence Mueller of Etiwanda, Mrs. Walter W. Horak, Mrs. Vernon Paine, Mrs. Clifford Jellison, Mrs. Fred R. Rickel, Mrs. John Jellison, Mrs. Harold J. Stickney, Mrs. Elmer Allen, and the Misses Margaret Brest, Lorene Lamphear, Florence Armstrong, Lois Kent, Jessie Brown, Esther Anderson, Pauline Tilden, Dorothy Thompson and Ena Hawthorne.

Quantities of spring blossoms added color to the scene and a delectable dessert course was served.

B-Square Club Holds Pleasant Party at Haines Home

Although the rain that fell steadily throughout the afternoon somewhat curtailed the attendance, still the party held Tuesday by the B-Square Embroidery club was a merry event.

Mrs. Stacy Haines was hostess at her home, 937 Campus avenue, with Mrs. Howard Allen as cohostess.

The usual roll call was held with response being made with current events and quotations.

During the brief business session, plans were made for financing a contribution to the sick baby fund maintained by the Woman's Auxiliary of San Antonio Community hospital.

During the afternoon various games were played and a valentine making contest was held, with the prize being won by Mrs. Edward Beard.

Attractive valentine decorations were used and refreshments were served late in the afternoon.

Attending the party were Mrs. E. C. Chapman, Mrs. Edwin Chapman, Mrs. C. D. Daniels, Mrs. Fred Harris, Mrs. H. O. Henderson, Mrs. R. M. Hobbs, Mrs. Charles Wing, Mrs. Henry E. Mrs. Beaubier Gives Farewell Dinner For Friends

Anticipating her departure this morning after a pleasant visit of several weeks, Mrs. Ella Westland Beaubier, former well known resident of Upland and now residing in Alberta, Canada, entertained with a farewell dinner last evening at Padua Hills Inn, her guests being a number of friends with whom she was closely associated when living in Upland many years ago.

A delightfully planned dinner was served at the inn, the valentine motif prevailing in the table appointments and decorations. Valentines were used as place cards and the flowers were white stock and red snapdragons.

Between the courses the guests were entertained by the inn's resident troupe of Mexican singers and dancers.

At the conclusion of the dinner hour, Mrs. Beaubier and her guests adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Manker, 603 Second avenue, for an evening of card games and visiting.

Mrs. Beaubier's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. McQuillen, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Manker, and Wm. E. Westland of Van Nuys.

AMERICAN IDEALS URGED BY SPEAKER

Mrs. Louise Ward Watkins Is Presented at Meeting At Paul Home

Revealing a deep insight into present-day economic and political conditions, and possessing the ability to express her thoughts in fluent, though concise speech, Mrs. Louise Ward Watkins made an earnest plea fol loyal adrerence to those true American ideals that made Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln beloved idols of the American people, when she appeared as the program speaker at a regular meeting of the West End Republican Women's Study club held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Earl W. Paul, 2009 North Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Watkins, prominent California club woman and past president of the Friday Morning club in Los Angeles, is noted for her personal charm and gracious manner, as well as for her keen intellect and vast store of personally gathered information. She is now head of the Republican Women's campaign organization in Southern California and in that capacity she has made a close study of prevailing social, economic and political conditions.

Presented by Dr. Lillian F. Baxter, president of the Study club, Mrs. Watkins spoke for two hours and so deeply interested her audience that the passing of time was unnoticed.

The speaker warned particularly of the change taking place in communistic propaganda, which she said is gradually pervading many American institutions. Formerly of the easily recognized, soap box variety, this propaganda, she said, has now become more subtle, more insiduous, and in various disguises is termiting its way into the very foundation structures of American life.

The average person, not acquainted with these facts, Mrs. Watkins stated, does not realize the present dangers from Communism and she urged all women to make special effort to study all phases of the situation. As a specific instance she urged that careful watch be kept on the text books placed in the public schools.

In discussing the question of increasing taxes, Mrs. Watkins took occasion to refer to the 20,000,000 or more persons now dependent upon the government, which in reality is the taxpayers. However, she expressed the belief that the depression emergency has passed and as evidence cited the increasing expenditures for popular amusements, sports, racing, etc. In this conection she warned against exaggeration in the pursuit of pleasure and likened the present speedy rate of living and restless demand for thrill and excitement to the orgies of pleasure indulged in by the Romans just before that great civilization began its toboggan slide from the dizzy heights of power into oblivion.

Mrs. Watkins dwelt at length upon the part women may take in holding the nation to the safe way plainly marked by the Constitution of the United States and she urged that care be taken in selecting good and capable men for public office, and above all she stressed the necessity for seeing that the youth of the land absorb the ideals of true Americanism.

At the conclusion of her address Mrs. Watkins gave some time to answering questions.

A special guest at the meeting, which was attended by approximately 30 West End women, was Mrs. Anna B. Garner of San Bernardino, chairman of the Southern District Republican Women's organization.

DR. FOSTER WILL RETIRE JUNE 1; PLANS UNCERTAIN

Rector of St. Mark's Will Give Up Active Work Due to Health

Dr. Bert Foster is scheduled to retire as rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church June 1 as the result of a meeting of the church vestry this week. Dr. Foster officially submitted his resignation and it was accepted with the date of his retirement left up to Dr. Foster. Dr. Foster said that he believed a younger man should be in the rectory and that he had decided to retire from active church leadership due to his health.

Dr. and Mrs. Foster's plans are uncertain.

"This is our home—but our children are in Sacramento, so we don't know what we are going to do or where we are going to live," the highly esteemed rector and friend of the community said.

Dr. Foster's resignation will be read at the morning service in St. Mark's church. Glenn D. Smith will read the action of the vestry in accepting the resignation. An opportunity will be given for any one in the congregation to comment on the situation. A large attendance of the members is hoped for by the officials.

Considering the amount of work done by Dr. Foster and the energy he puts into every task, he has maintained his health in a remarkable manner. With less active work he will be in a position to rest more and to leisurely enjoy life. He is known to almost every one in the community and it is the hope of the friends of Dr. and Mrs. Foster that they will continue to reside here.

Registrations for 1936-37 Year Are Studied at Chaffey

Mrs. Susan B. Mehl, dean of girls at Chaffey, is today preparing to check with students concerning their courses for the next school year. Each student tentatively selects courses for years ahead. These tentative courses received close attention by the advisors and plans are being made definitely for the 1936-37 class programs.

to the loft by pegs driven in the wall.

Abraham was early left motherless. His mother died October 15, 1818, at the age of 35. A year later Thomas Lincoln went back to Kentucky to look for a wife. He found a widow named Sarah Bush Johnston. He knew her before he met Nancy Hanks Lincoln. They came back to Indiana. Before winter she made her husband put a good floor in the cabin, a door and some windows. She brought good comfortable beds for them to sleep on. She put good clothes on Abraham and his sister. She loved them both very dearly.

Abraham only had about a year of schooling. But when he grew to the age of twenty-one he had plenty of education. He taught himself to read plenty of books, and listened and observed all his life.

By Harriet Hixon

In a little log cabin about 50 miles south of Louisville, Ky., Abraham Lincoln was born on the morning of Feb. 12, 1809.

On July 4 and February 12 people make trips from all over the world to see this log cabin.

The house and land on which the Lincolns lived was often called Rock Spring farm.

From the age of two Lincoln was interested in books, especially the Bible. However, he did not have much to read except what he borrowed. The family library consisted of a Bible and an almanac. At six his favorite book was Robinson Crusoe.

When he was seven years of age his father decided to move west to the deep woods of southern Indiana. For more than a year the Lincolns lived in a shack which was called a three-sided camp, built log-cabin fashion, three-sided, with a fire on the fourth side to take the place of a wall.

Schools were not developed for several years. When schools finally came Abraham Lincoln walked five or six miles to school. The teachers who taught the schools had about as much education as the average 12-year-old school boy of today.

A few stray leaves from his precious books are the only objects owned by Lincoln in his boyhood that have come down to us.

There are many stories still told of his honesty, his kindness, and his love of mankind.

By Marian Vogel

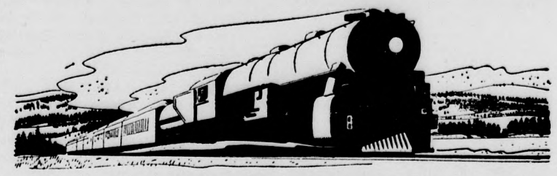

Abraham Lincoln was born on Feb. 12, 1809, in a log cabin in Kentucky. His family was very poor. When Abraham Lincoln was seven years of age his family moved to Ohio river and settled in Indiana. Their home, which was very poor, had only three sides. The fourth was left out so a fire had to be kept burning all night. About the only thing Abraham Lincoln had to play with was a "spring of water, mud and stones."

Abraham had a sister who was two years older than himself. When Abraham was a little older, his mother died. This broke Abraham's heart. His mother's last words were, "Try to live as I have taught you and to love your Heavenly Father." His mother was 35 years old.

Abraham Lincoln's father went to find a new wife. He found Sarah Bush Johnston, he later married her. Abraham Lincoln's first mother's name was Nancy Hanks Lincoln.

Abraham became a great man although he was very poor. He did not have any education. He did a lot for the United States of America. He freed the slaves. He became the President of the United States of America in February, 1861. Abraham Lincoln left Springfield in 1861 to go to Washington to take his seat as President of the United States of America.

REPAIR COST AT AUDITORIUM HIGH

Condemned Structure Checked By Official—No Action Is Taken

Total costs to remodel the Chaffey high school auditorium so that it would meet the state requirements for a class B public structure and be earthquake resistant was estimated at between $130,000 and $140,000, according to the report of Franklin N. Ropp, one of the outstanding engineers of Southern California, which was read at the regular meeting of the Chaffey board of trustees on Tuesday evening.

The board made no recommendations concerning its disposition, because the cost of rehabilitation was so great. Newton Trautman, chairman of the building committee, questioned whether the rehabilitation of the building at such a cost to the district would be good economy, as the auditorium when completed would be no improvement from a utilitarian standpoint since it would be the same size as it is now.

Mr. Ropp concurred with the findings of the corps of engineers who were sent from the state architect's office in 1933 and who, after an examination of several weeks, reported that the building in no wise measures up to present standards of safety.

The report of the engineer states that, based on his experience with similar projects, it would not be economically feasible to rehabilitate the auditorium to meet the new code requirements for earthquake resistance, because the brickwork is of very poor quality, the concrete walls of the auditorium contain very little, if any, reinforced steel, the stage walls are incapable of being reinforced economically, the roof construction is considerably under requirements for vertical loads, and the ventilating system is obsolete.

"...the best interests of the growers"

Who is better able to serve the growers than the growers themselves acting together—as in the Exchange?

IT is frequently said of one or another marketing organization or marketing method that it "serves the best interests of the growers."

The making of such a claim is understandable. Certainly every grower wishes to do that which serves his best interests.

But who is better able to serve the growers than the growers? Prior to the establishment of the Exchange, a variety of methods were tried. But the growers' interests were never served until the growers decided to take care of their own affairs themselves by united action.

The Exchange was formed by the growers. It was the growers. It is the growers today. It makes no profit. It returns every cent over cost to its members, and its costs are unusually low. By cooperation, the growers are able to do a much better job than they could individually, and at much less expense.

When anyone talks to you about your own best interests, ask yourself this question: "Who is going to make the profit on this deal? Are their costs so much lower than those of the biggest growers' group that they can make a profit and still give me a higher return?"

Are you serving enough "bulk" in your meals?

MILLIONS of meals served in American homes today lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Too often, these meals lead to common constipation, a cause of headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies generous "bulk" in mild form. Also vitamin B and iron. Scientific tests show it is a gentle, natural laxative food for normal people.

Try the sample. Either as a cereal, or in cooking. Then get the full-sized package from your grocer, so that the whole family may benefit from its use. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

If you are not at home when our men call, and do not get your booklet and sample, write us and we will gladly send them to you.

SPRAYING COSTS VARIATION CITED

Black, Red Scale Most Expensive Pest to Control, Moon Reports

Cost of spraying trees for scale varies from a few dollars per acre on small trees up to $30 an acre on the larger groves, Ralph Moon, manager of the Cooperative Fumigation & Supply Co. pointed out as one feature of his report at the annual meeting of the group this week.

Spraying for black and red scale is the most expensive, the cost being 20 cents a tree or a cost of $17.30 an acre. Total of 3454 acres was sprayed for these pests. Per acre costs of spraying for the following costs are listed: brown rot, $3.50; mottleleaf, $5.80; Aphis, thrip, etc., $3, and red spider, $6.20. Total of 750 acres was fumigated for scale at a cost of $33.50 an acre.

Mottle leaf sprays run from $6.00 to $7.00 per acre with the zinc compounds, he said. Brown rot spraying ran from $3.00 to $4.00 per acre. Dusting cost was $4.00 per acre for one treatment and very few had the second dusting. Fumigating on the average matured grove usually runs from $35.00 to $40.00 per acre. "During the past season we fumigated groves that consisted of small trees for as low as $18.50 per acre. From this low it ranged as high as $55.00 for the very large trees," the report says.

High School P.-T. A.

A cleverly arranged program that will depict the history of the Parent-Teacher movement will feature a social meeting and tea to be held by the Chaffey High School P.-T. A. P.-T. A. FOUNDERS' DAY IS OBSERVED

Fannie D. Noe Association Is Hostess to Neighbors At Meeting

Marking a decided departure from the usual Founders' day program, the Fannie D. Noe Parent-Teacher association was hostess to the Junior High P.-T. A. and the Eighteenth Street P.-T. A. at a very successful meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the junior high school auditorium. Despite the heavy rain, there was a large attendance at the meeting.

Mrs. Geo. W. Cassell opened the meeting with the usual ceremonies and conducted a brief business session during which the nominating committee, to prepare for the annual election in March, was elected, the personnel being Mrs. Hjalmar Anderson, Mrs. Herbert Hall and Miss Ruth Pittenger.

The Junior High association also held a brief business session and selected Mrs. W. N. Williamson, Mrs. Clyde D. DuVall and Mrs. Thos. H. Settle as the nominating committee. Mrs. V. Wade Holden was named representative in the Upland Motion Picture council, succeeding Miss Margaret Crosby, who recently was transferred from the junior high school to Chaffey. Mrs. R. D. Kilborne conducted the session and announced Mrs. Harriet Fleming of Chaffey will be the speaker at the March meeting of the Junior High P.-T. A.

The Founders' day program presented by the Fannie D. Noe P.-T. A. opened with an impressive candle-lighting ceremony, in which Mrs. Hjalmar Anderson, representing the home, Mrs. Harold J. Stickney, the school, and Mrs. Stanley G. Marshall, the community, lighted candles for their respective fundation institutions and spoke briefly of their importance. The four women were dressed in 1900 period costumes.

The two entertainers, Mrs. Cordelia Story Hutchinson and Mrs. Ernest O. Lee, both of Ontario, were presented by Mrs. Cassell.

With Mrs. Cassell accompanying at the piano, Mrs. Hutchinson, widely known vocalist, sang several beautiful numbers, including "Spring Dropped a Song Into My Heart" (Beatrice Fenner), "Tommy Lad" (Margaretson), and "Sweet Phyllis" (Lily Strickland). As an encore Mrs. Hutchinson sang "Saturday" (Muriel Pollock).

As the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Lee, known throughout Southern California as an authority on early California history, gave a most interesting account of the early days of this region, telling of the Indians, the establishment of missions, the Spanish dons, and more specifically, of the settlement of the Ontario colony.

In connection with Mrs. Lee's address an exhibit was made of a number of valuable historic objects, including newspapers, clothing, household articles, etc., used in the early days.

Beecher F. Hungerford has been given a permit to construct a garage at 1677 Euclid avenue.

Planned by members of the Methodist Sunday school orchestra, a skating party will be held Monday night, beginning at 7:30, at the Chino skating rink, and many young people of the community are expected to attend.
